Pilot Pleads Guilty To Spying

Powers' Wife, Parents At Trial

MOSCOW (UPI) — Francis Gary Powers pleaded guilty in open court today to spying for the United States against Russia and said he was sorry now he had any part in the U-2 flight over the Soviet.

The handsome pilot, appearing in good mental and physical condition, said he was given a military order to go on the May 1 mission on which he was downed.

The lights in the Hall of Columns flared up and the Russian television cameras hummed as Powers added:

Gives Calm Recital
"Now that I know something more of the consequences of my flight—I don't know all by any means, the summit conference, the increase of world tension—I am sorry, I had any part in it."

Powers, on trial for his life on his 31st birthday, gave a calm and detailed recital of the mission. He revealed that he had made two previous U-2 flights from Turkey to Norway, along but not over the Soviet borders, prior to the one on which he was downed.

He said his plane was hit at an altitude of 60,000 feet as he carried out instructions to turn on "designated equipment" whose purpose he did not know.

Powers said he was a $2,500-a-month employee of the Central Intelligence Agency. He said American laws provide a 10-year prison sentence for revealing such a top-secret contract.

Name U.S. Officer
An Air Force officer identified as Colonel Shelton of the Adana, Turkey base was named by Powers as the man who ordered him to make the flight.

Prosecutor Roman Rudenko asked Powers about the poison "suicide needle" found in his possession. Powers said he was to use it in case of torture. Rudenko asked the young American if he had been tortured.

"No," Powers replied, "I was treated very nicely."

Rudenko questioned Powers in detail during the morning session and then Soviet - appointed defense attorney Mikhail Grinev took over in the afternoon.

Describes Powers Family
With his pretty wife and his mother and father watching from a box in the rear of the great hall, jammed with 2,000 spectators, Grinev drew a picture of Powers as coming from a working-class family.

Powers said he had taken 4 (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Scheduled Three Days

Annual Middletown Grange County Fair Opens Tomorrow

All is in readiness for the anticipated thousands that are planning to attend the three-day annual Middletown Grange County Fair which opens tomorrow and continues through Saturday.

The 12th annual event familiar to many Bucks Countians and their neighboring residents across the Delaware is again being staged on the grounds of Heston Manor Farm, Lindenhurst Road, one and one-half miles east of Newtown and approximately four miles west of Yardley.

The fair, open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. will boast a large exhibit of several breeds of cattle, farm and home economic products as well as farm machinery, and various types of feed for animals.

Exhibits On Display
Grange and general exhibits and a flower show will be displayed. Entries in either the home ec department or the flower show will be received at the Grange tent tonight between 7 and 9 p.m. Judging of flowers is scheduled for 10 p.m.

Judging of the 4-H exhibits in the home ec tent will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow and the judging of the Jersey breed by John E. Melchior Jr. of Easton, will take place at 1 p.m. Merton Soverby

Freed In $2,000 Bail

Woman Says Driver Tried To Steal Kiss

A Mercerville, N.J., truck driver was released in $2,000 bail yesterday afternoon after he was charged with assault and battery and indecent assault upon a 30-year-old Trenton woman before Lower Makefield Justice of the Peace Kenneth West.

The charge was made by Miss Elizabeth Dobronte, 940 Franklin St., against Harry Zielinski, 27 of Hughes Drive, police in Lower Makefield Township said.

Steal A Kiss

She told West that Zielinski tried to steal a kiss from her Friday while she was stopped in her car in a traffic jam at an intersection of the detour around the Pennsylvania approach to the new Scudders Falls Bridge.

Miss Dobronte told police she was confused by a sign marking the detour and was stopped when Zielinski pulled up behind her in his truck. She said he got out of his truck and came up to her, police added. When she refused the kiss, police said, he reached for her but was frightened away when another car approached.

License Number

Miss Dobronte took down the license number of the truck and police were able to trace the driver through the Trenton auto parts firm for which Zielinski works, police said.

Zielinski was arrested by Trenton police yesterday morning and given a hearing a few hours later.

Ike Sees No Evidence Of Brainwashing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today he sees no evidence that U-2 pilot Francis G. Powers was brainwashed, but he assailed the Soviet Union for violating international custom in Powers' espionage trial.

Powers, at the opening of his trial in Moscow today, pleaded guilty to the charge that he spied against Russia when he flew over the country on his ill-fated high-level reconnaissance mission on May 1.

The President, at his news conference, said he did not see the Powers' plea as evidence that he had been brainwashed by his captors.

Rejects Soviet Line

But the President said under international custom, any foreigner arrested anywhere is entitled to consult with officials of his own country. He said the United States has asked repeatedly to see Powers. This request has been denied.

Asked about the Powers case, the President rejected as groundless the Soviet propaganda line. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

State Legion Tourney Morrisville Wins, 7-0, Plays Again Tonight

By TOM JUNO
Courier-Times Sports Writer

LIMEPORT, PA. — Morrisville's Sanford-Diletto Post 433 American Legion baseball team passed its first test this morning at the State Legion tourney.

Manager Don Poland's club whitewashed Williamsburg 7-0 behind the seven-hit hurling of lanky Vaughn Ward.

Morrisville will play again tonight, taking on the winner of the Valley View-Springdale game at Max Hess Stadium, Allentown, under the lights at 8 o'clock. Valley View was leading in this morning's game 5-0 in the seventh inning.

Ward was superb today. He fanned 16 and gave up two walks. Dan Napoleon led the hitters with three knocks.

Morrisville opened the scoring in the sixth inning when Dick Hart was safe on an error. Mike Klein walked and both advanced when a pickoff at second base failed. Fran Lucash scored Hart. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Court Wing, Jail Addition Also Planned

The Bucks County Commissioners yesterday got set to buy and build $1,500,000 worth of county park land and facilities, construct a six-courtroom judicial wing on the new courthouse and add a cell block to the county prison, with a bond issue of $5,350,000.

The three-man county board, with a half-dozen architects, attorneys and fiscal advisers at its side, moved unanimously to float the bonds and open bids Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 11 a.m.

The action was voted in the late afternoon, following a morning session in which a letter from the county park board stressed the urgency of getting land now.

Low Bidders
Roy J. Carroll, of the architectural firm of Carroll, Grisdale and Van Alen and designers of the courthouse, urged the commissioners to award contracts to the recent low bidders for general construction, plumbing and heating, ventilating and air conditioning of the court wing.

The bids were opened Tuesday, Aug. 9. The low bids approved by the architects were: general construction, John McShane, Inc., Philadelphia, $2,291,000; plumbing, Riggs Distler and Co. Philadelphia, $81,620 and heating, ventilating and air conditioning, Crouse Co., Inc., Linfield $255,000.

Carroll advised the commissioners to reject the electrical bids and change the specifications. The elevator bids were rejected on Carroll's recommendation when he said the low bidder Corvett Elevator Co., Philadelphia, had not installed elevators of the courthouse type before and he wanted to investigate further.

Partial Answer
The $1,500,000 allocation for badly needed park development provided a partial answer to the plea of the park board, Edward B. Boyer, commissioners' chairman, said his board will not seek an election referendum on park land spending, as it had previously considered. The park board opposed a referendum.

The park board's letter signed by Dr. W. Wilson McNeary, chairman, reminded Republican majority commissioners Boyer and John J. Bodley, of their campaign promise last November to acquire park land, "today, not tomorrow, while prices are reasonable and choice land is available. . . so (present) and future residents shall not be hemmed in."

Land Needed
The park board said $3,000,000 worth of land was needed. It proposed two ways to finance it — borrowing the full amount at once with an authority loan or borrowing $1,000,000 now and financing the rest with a special one and one-half mill tax next year. A general mill tax was proposed to go with the immediate $3,000,000 loan.

Boyer said the $1,500,000 in the bond loan "will do the job as required now."

"Rather than plunge into a $3,000,000 loan," he said, "We want to see what we can do with this."

Boyer said he has not been decided whether or by what means to provide the additional $1,500,000 requested.

Land with an estimated value of $1,000,000 must be purchased very soon if plans for a Mill Creek (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

Police Find 2 In Restaurant After Hours

Middletown Township police found two men at a popular Route 1 restaurant early this morning. It was 4:15 a.m., three hours after Alvino's restaurant closed.

The men, Charles Mazzella, 26, 11 Jangood Road, Terrace 1, Bristol Township; and John Fletcher, 19, 51 Madison St., Bristol, were hiding with burglary tools in their possession, police said. They were charged with burglary, conspiracy and possession of burglary tools.

Broken Window
The men were discovered after Patrolmen Morton Sutton and George Haller investigated a broken window and jimmied door on the premises.

According to Sergeant Karl Kritzberger, the two officers were on road patrol when they checked the building. An investigation of a shed attached to the main building revealed Mazzella, Kritzberger said.

The sergeant and the restaurant owner, Anthony Alvino, were summoned. They entered the main building and discovered Fletcher hiding there, Kritzberger said.

The police officer reported that the men apparently had not had a chance to take anything. They are now being questioned by Middletown police.

Over $375 Stolen From Gas Station

A sneak thief slipped into a gasoline station at Bargain City, Route 413 and Durham Road, Bristol Township, last night and made off with $375 to $400, police reported this morning.

The police said the thief entered the office of the station while the attendant on duty was servicing an auto at one of the station's pumps.

Detective Wallace Michener and Sergeant Harry Bower are investigating.

Third Annual Times Tax Survey—Tomorrow

The third annual Courier-Times survey of taxes in Lower Bucks County will be published tomorrow.

How much are you paying? Is it more than your neighboring community? And how does the reassessment program affect you?

These are just a few of the questions. And you'll get the answers tomorrow in the complete rundown of the tax structure for real estate, occupation, and per capita taxes.

Be sure you don't miss the "big story" tomorrow. It'll be carried in all three editions of the Courier-Times.

Man Going To Jail On Installment Plan

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — A man is going to jail here on the installment plan.

William Bickowski, 32, of Bowmans, received a 15-day sentence yesterday for stealing pipe at a nearby mine but told the judge he'd be fired if he missed 15 days work.

So Judge Charles W. Staudenmerier ordered him to report only on weekends.

Good Evening!

Fair skies everywhere.

They're always blue when things are right.

And right the County Commissioners were yesterday when they included in a general bond issue $1,500,000 for real estate taxation of the Bucks County Park Board program embracing for the most part that splendid Mill Creek Park system.

Not so right last night when the Phillies dropped two more to those barrelling Pittsburgh Pirates.

Hey, how about those three perfect butt singles loading the bases in the Bucs' eighth making Roberts mutter to himself and walk in the winning run? With that kind of baseball the Pirates SHOULD win the pennant.

Don't count out the Los Angeles Dodgers — yet.

Little kids starting to register for their first looksee at school and it's the infallible sign of summertime fading into autumn and it won't be long.

Days getting shorter. You notice? And rhapsody of the crickets growing louder and longer.

A vicious circle it is. You hardly get through mowing the grass when you start picking up the leaves — billions of 'em.

U-2 Pilot Powers' trial begins in Moscow and we wouldn't be surprised if the Red Moscovites go real easy on the brainwashed flyboy as a matter of "compassion" for a victim of "capitalistic conspiracy."

And Congo Premier Lumumba flouts U. N. authority and insults its secretary general Dag Hammarskjöld and he'll probably discover soon that this is a way to lose whatever global friends he may have left.

A child is somebody who stands between an adult and a TV set.

Husband: "The bank just returned a check for $25."

Wife: "That's wonderful! What shall we buy with it this time?"

It's not so bad if your mind goes blank — if you always remember to turn off the sound.

If you drive, take it easy.

Where Pollen Abounds, Hay Fever Sneezes Resound

Uncontrolled weeds such as these on Lakeside Drive in Tullytown become more than just an eyesore to hay fever sufferers these days. Pollen, the number one enemy of persons with hay fever, comes from the seeds of the weeds and the higher the weeds, the higher the pollen count. (Courier-Times Photos)

Well... blow me down — it's here — as if you hay fever sufferers didn't know. Fred Bartholomae, of 10 Ivory Rock Road, Levittown, a hay fever victim from way back didn't have to pose for this shot. "It e-c-c-comes (Ha-Choooo) — naturally this time of y-y-y- (Ha-Choooo) -year," Fred said.

During winter this is a vacant lot on Trenton Road near Oxford Valley Road in Falls Township. But wild growing weeds fill the vacant lot during the summer months while their offspring, the fine yellow dust of pollen, hits the sensitive noses of persons afflicted with hay fever. The scene is typical of many other communities in Lower Bucks where enforcement of weed ordinances is lax.

19 Nominees Are Picked By Chamber

Six businessmen from Lower Bucks County were nominated last night to be directors at large of the Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce and thirteen others to be district directors for the coming year.

Election of the directors will be held Sept. 14 at the Chamber's building, Route 13 and Bath Rd., Bristol.

Officials of the Chamber also announced that on Sept. 13 Donald V. Hock, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Bucks-Lehigh district, will address the chamber at a luncheon in the Buck Hotel.

Those nominated for director at large yesterday were: Thomas E. Coe, Jr., senior vice-president of Central Penn Bank; Tim R. Fahy, president, Bucks County Safety Council; Arthur Hecht, retail advertising manager, Levittown Times - Bristol Courier; David R. Johnson, Johnson-Grupp-Kendall, Inc., insurance brokers; Robert E. McClanen, Elmwood Realty Co., and Horace Schmidt of Schmidt's Florists. Nominated for district director from Bristol were Peter Cattani, Cattani's Beverages, and John Cotzin, vice-president of Fidelity-Philadelphia Bank; from Langhorne, Harker C. Idell, vice-president of Title Abstract Co.; John Watkins, publisher of the Delaware Valley Advance.

Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried reside in Morrisville at 234 Louise Drive. The couple has three children, Robert, nine; Susan, 7; and James, four months of age.

$1.5 Million

Valley Park extending along stream valleys through Lower Bucks from Silver Lake, Bristol, are ever to be realized. This is because the land value is constantly rising and commercial developers are anxious to get the property.

The judicial wing will be the second and final phase of the new $7,000,000 Bucks County Courthouse. The first half, the seven-story Administration Building, was opened in Doylestown early this year.

The $5,350,000 loan will also finance paying an addition to the county parking lot, furniture for the new wing, new business machines and 15 voting machines already purchased on a pay-later plan.

The new prison wing with 30 cells will cost $150,000 to build. The 76-year old prison is greatly overcrowded and does not meet the standards required in new prisons today.

First Reaction

First to react to the action to augment the park program was Hal H. Clark, of Doylestown, a member of the park board and president of the Delaware Valley Protective Association.

"I am gratified that the Bucks County Commissioners have made the first sizeable commitment for the acquisition of park land," he said. "I am sure the public will approve and will back the commissioners in all their efforts to assure the county of a fully-rounded park program for now and the future."

Boyer said some $200,000 of the loan will be used to acquire land at Silver Lake for which the county is already negotiating.

Also urgently needed now, while it is available, according to the park board, are park sites at Woodbourne, the Churchville area, on the Little Neshaminy Creek and the Delaware River, and to expand the county parks of Ringing Rock, Weisel and Tinicum.

high-paying job with the CIA because he could not find good employment elsewhere and he thought it would insure him financial independence.

The pilot said he wasn't asked if he wanted to make the flight over the Soviet Union.

"I couldn't refuse. It was an order," he said. "I would—by refusing—have been considered a coward by my associates. It would also have been an unsuccessful completion of my contract."

Status Not Clear

Grinev finished the day's questioning by saying he had "no more questions now." It was not clear whether Powers had finished his testimony or would face additional questioning Thursday.

Under questioning by his defense attorney, Powers said he was sorry if his flight increased world tensions.

"I have not had much news of what happened in the world," he said. "I heard that as the result of my flight, the Paris summit conference was not held and President Eisenhower's invitation to Moscow was cancelled."

Powers, who has been in Communist hands since his plane was downed last May 1 near Sverdlovsk in Siberia, was asked why he carried a poison suicide needle with him on the flight.

The pilot told prosecutor Roman Rudenko it was for use in case of torture. Rudenko asked the young American if he had been tortured.

Guilty Plea Expected

"No," Powers replied. "I was treated very nicely."

To Hold Convention

Miniature Circus 'Buffs' Pouring Into Lower Bucks

Miniature circus "Buffs" are into Lower Bucks County in increasing numbers today as the Circus Model Builders of America prepares to open its three-day convention in the Community Building in the Levittown Shop-A-Rama beginning tomorrow and running through Friday and Saturday.

The convention, the first in the history of Levittown, is being sponsored by the Levittown Businessmen's Association and the Adam Forepaugh Ring of Delaware Valley, U. S. A. and is open to the public, free of charge. The opening is set for 5 p.m. tomorrow and the closing hour 4 p.m. Saturday. The exhibit will be open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and will open at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Close to 1,000,000 in miniature circuses, mechanized and animated, will be on display in the Community Building and Ringmaster Charles W. Mercer of Bristol, has set the Del Val Motel as the convention headquarters.

Representing the Levittown Businessmen's Association on the barge trip will be Mr. and Mrs. Willard C. Calkins Jr. who will be official host and hostess and will point out many points of scenic and historical significance to the visitors.

The following miniature circus builders are already in Lower Bucks. They are: Sam Shearer, Cumberland; Paul Bohler, Lancaster; Walter Heist, Jr., Harrisburg; James Hassan, Philadelphia; Mr. Hartman, Washington, Pa.; Hugh Burleigh, Chester; Ed Gorsuch, Baltimore, Md.; Vic Carey, Baltimore, Md.; John Martin, Martinsburg, Va.; Robert E. Grover, Dunmore; Carl Netter, New York; William S. Dykes, Salisbury Md.; Harry Heath, Clifton Heights; Mr. Horn and G. Carver, John Lower, Chambersburg; David Van Zant, Lewisville, Tenn.; Keller Roberts and Son and C. W. Mercer, Bristol.

Gets Eviction Notice

White said the firm would appeal for an extension. It would be physically impossible for the firm to move within the 60 days, White added.

First In Area

Simons Lumber is the first firm in the area to report that it has received its eviction notice. Other firms located along Bristol Pike which are in the path of the second link of the expressway are still awaiting settlement.

The Simons Company has acquired temporary quarters farther up Bristol Pike near Park Ave. Most of the homes in the condemned area have already been vacated.

Several small businesses in the area have indicated that they are dissatisfied with the offers made by the State Highway Department.

One of them, Richard Fechtenburg, a realtor whose office is located on Bristol Pike at Street Road, has applied to Bucks County Court for a Jury of View. No date has been set by the court when the three-man jury will inspect Fechtenburg's property and report its findings to the court.

Bonds Offered To Public

Mill St. Businessmen Hear DV Hospital Aide

Hospital bonds yield a high return and offer gilt-edged security. Mrs. Rita I. Flack, member of the board of directors of the Delaware Valley Hospital, told the Mill Street Businessmen's Association yesterday afternoon at a luncheon meeting.

Mrs. Flack pointed out that the debenture bonds now being offered by the hospital on a 16½-year maturity, will pay seven per cent interest and are underwritten by the Fidelity - Philadelphia Trust Co.

The bonds are being offered for sale to the general public to raise $275,000 of the $564,000 needed for the addition to the hospital, now under construction at Wilson Ave. and Pond St., Bristol.

The businessmen also appropriated money for the new, elaborate baby-sitting service which will be opened as soon as possible in a Mill St. store and decorated in Disneyland fashion.

So far, Phillip Powell, president, told the men, he has been unable to find a new secretary to replace Mrs. Edna Whipps, who resigned last month.

Speaking on behalf of the Delaware Valley Hospital in addition to Mrs. Flack were Dr. Julius Sobel and William Daub.

The new addition is scheduled for completion in April of next year, they said, and will offer a new obstetrical suite, surgical room, laboratories and kitchen as well as increase the bed capacity of the hospital.

It will be financed by sale of the bonds and by a first mortgage, they explained.

Missing Girl's Clothing Found In Bloody Shack

BOONVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — A doctor's 11-year-old daughter disappeared on a shopping trip and authorities found her clothing in the blood-spattered shack and car of a 53-year-old sex deviate today.

A shocked and angry crowd gathered near the jail, where police in relays questioned a man identified as Emmett Oliver Hashfield, who has a criminal record dating back to 1927.

Avril Terry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Terry, vanished from the courthouse square here Tuesday morning while shopping for a birthday present for her little sister.

Her red slacks and white blouse were found in Hashfield's shack and car.

Hashfield was being held on open charges. Authorities barricaded a broad area around the Warrick County jail when crowds formed.

Boro Store Will Mark Third Year

Plans for the third anniversary of the opening of the Lit Brothers store in Morrisville have been announced by Edwin Littwin, general manager of the stores in Trenton and Morrisville.

Thursday shoppers entering Lits in the Morrisville Shopping Center will be greeted by 1,000 slices of birthday cake, guest celebrities, free gifts and hundreds of low-priced "specials," Littwin said. The celebration will continue Friday and Saturday.

Local radio and TV celebrities, as well as performers from nearby summer theatres, will be at the store to join in the party.

Guests Listed

Guests will include Ron Palao (WTTM) and Dick Harvey and Harry Newman (WAAT) will be talking to the store via beeper-phone from his studio.

Happy the Clown (WFIL-TV) will put on a show for the children. He'll give away lollipops, girls' mirrors, balloons and toy whistles in addition to his picture.

For the ladies there will be free samples in Lits Morrisville cosmetics department, Littwin said.

Claire Alexander and Bob Brooks, singers from the cast of Sigmund Romberg's "The New Moon," the operetta at the Lambertville Music Circus this week will be interviewed at noon.

Organist Ethel Smith, recording artist and actress, whose record "Tico Tico" sold over 3-million copies, will be at the store at 1 p.m. She is currently appearing in "Happy Ending" at the Bucks County Playhouse.

At 2 p.m., the Majestics, a Trenton singing group, will go on-stage to sing their latest recording, "Searching for a New Love."

Organist Ethel Smith, whose recording of "Tico, Tico" has sold more than three million copies, will appear in Lit Brothers Store, Morrisville, at 1 p.m., tomorrow to help the store celebrate its third anniversary.

DA Ends 'Nightmare'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A 19-year-old youth who last week unveiled the accidental killing of a nightwatchman in 1954 was officially cleared by the District Attorney here yesterday, climaxing a six-year mental nightmare for the boy.

The District Attorney's office said an investigation showed the death of John Ritto, 52, in November 1954 was "purely accidental" and that no charges would be made against the youth, Thomas J. McAleer.

Young McAleer told police he shot and killed Ritto with a shotgun he had been using to kill rats while playing cowboys and Indians with a toy gun and the rifle. He was then 13 years old.

Ritto maintained on his deathbed that he shot himself accidentally and told young McAleer, "Don't worry kid. I won't tell on you."

The next six years were a living nightmare for McAleer who barely managed to finish high school and then joined the Army. He once was AWOL for 91 days because of a fear he developed for guns.

McAleer confessed his secret to Army psychiatrist two weeks ago, who in turn notified Philadelphia authorities.

100 YEAR SUSPENSION

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — It will be a long time before Conway Webb, 38, a Negro, can legally drive again in Alabama.

City Judge William Conway fined Webb $125 and suspended him from driving for 100 years after he was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and driving without a license.

Only One Of Her Kind Explains Hows, Whys

Miss Louise DeMeo, the only woman manager in the Lit Brothers department store chain, checks to make sure the Morrisville store is ready to receive its early bird customers a few minutes before opening time. The store is celebrating its third anniversary this week. (Courier-Times Photo)

Louise DeMeo was tending to business as manager of the lower level — a sort of upper basement — in Lit Brothers' northeast Philadelphia store when the store manager casually remarked that the company had an opening as store manager in Morrisville. Would she be interested?

Miss DeMeo, just as casually, answered she would, and became the first woman manager in the company's 69-year history.

As head of the Morrisville store for two and a half of its three years in existence, Miss DeMeo has worked out a few rules she tries to follow religiously, plus an over-all guide for success.

Most Important

"The most important thing, I guess, is that I have always enjoyed doing everything connected with my work. Oh, I've blown my top a few times — sometimes I can't help myself and sometimes it's necessary, but I still get a kick out of doing what I do," she affirms.

"I never thought I'd get this far," she mused.

Starting with a part-time job selling sportswear in the depths of the depression, Miss DeMeo admitted she had often considered shifting her ambitions to another field.

Coming Up

"The most valuable thing I learned while coming up is how to get along with people," she admitted. "Working in a department store, I've been able to get experience in many different facets of business and I've managed to get along with almost everyone

I've met during my 25 years with the firm," she said.

"That rule is extended to customers."

"The customer is always right, even if they're wrong, is another rule I try to follow," she continued. "Sometimes it's hard to admit it, but I try to do it all ways," she said.

That included the woman on whose dress one sleeve became torn after she'd bought and worn it.

"She came into the store and took a dress into the fitting room, but came out a little later without it," Miss DeMeo remembered. "When we checked we found our dress hanging in perfectly good condition except that one sleeve was missing," she smiled.

"I also try to do whatever I can for my employees," she added. "After all, I need their help and I'd rather have experienced workers than have to change help every so often," she said.

Her philosophy reveals traits she herself sought in a boss when she was in less than an executive capacity.

Advance The Employee

"I've always tried to advance my employees wherever I possibly could. I think it helps them to do better work, knowing that they can get ahead. It gives them added interest in their jobs," she said.

Although realizing that retailing, especially department store retailing, can be a brutal business, Miss DeMeo figures she has it licked.

"It gets rough and at times everybody seems a little over-excited, but you learn to get along — to ride it through and get the work done," she decided.

"You have to like it. If you don't like and enjoy it, the job never gets done," she said.

Boro-Wide Picnic Planned On Island

An old Morrisville custom is due for a big revival this year.

In years past it was the custom of borough families to use Island Park facilities for picnics and summer outings. Civic groups and church organizations made frequent use of the park's picnic facilities.

However, as the years passed, the custom declined. This year the Morrisville Borough Recreation Board is planning to give it a shot in the arm with a borough-wide family picnic on Labor Day.

The park, also known as Williamson Park, was created a number of years ago under the terms of a trust created by the Williamson Estate. The borough receives the annual interest from the estate for the maintenance and operation of the park.

To Renew Interest

The Labor Day affair will be held to promote renewed interest in the use of park facilities and to induce civic groups and citizens of the borough to help in the development of the area.

Under the terms of the Williamson fund, the borough plants one tree each year within the park bounds. Over the years the tree planting was done quietly and without ceremony. This year, however, the tree planting will be one of the highlights of the Labor Day picnic. Burgess Harry Simpson will officiate at the ceremony.

Other events planned include children's novelty races, a concert by the Morrisville High School Band, a weight-lifting exhibition by the Morrisville Varsity Club, and a demonstration by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum and Bugle Corps.

Events Scheduled

Also, a swimming and diving exhibition by the Morrisville Swimming Club, and adult novelty games, including a rolling pin throwing contest, a greased pig contest and a contest between the Capital View and Union Fire Companies.

There will be two softball games in which the Lions Club will oppose Rotary and the VFW will oppose the American Legion.

Members of the Recreation Board include Councilman John Foose and Larry Lane, Morrisville Board of Education members Don, G. Frye and Robert C. Beadle, and James E. Wood, assistant principal of the Morrisville High School.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the high school to make further plans for the event.

The term "Amerind" embraces the American Indian and the Eskimo.
